New C.P.R. Irrigation Works, near Bassano, Alberta

INTRODUCTION

The Western lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway at the present time extend from Port Arthur and Fort William, on the shores of Lake Superior, in the East, to Port Alberni, on Vancouver Island, in the West, covering part of Western Ontario and the whole of the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. On its journey across the continent the railway opens up a territory rich in raw material, destined for the development of every kind of commercial enterprise. The enormous increase year by year in land settlement demands a contributory increase in industrial development. The market for the manufactured article is within the territory of its manufacture, and merely awaits the further investigation on the part of the capitalist.

Each year new towns come into existence; each year the demand for supplies grows greater; each year the importation of merchandise that could be manufactured in the country is steadily increasing.

The Canadian Pacific Railway, with its 1,600 Cities, Towns, and Villages in the West, opens up a tremendous field for commercial development. The retailer is demanded at every point, the wholesaler at strategic corners, where he is able to cover a large expanse of settled country; the manufacturer in the cities where the wholesale man takes the larger part of his output. For the manufacturer, the water-powers of the Western rivers, the coal deposits of British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan, and the Natural Gas fields of Alberta, constitute a means by which the raw material may be turned into the finished product with economic success and in competition with the products of any country in the world.

The best illustration of the demand for factories in the West may perhaps be found in the list of imports shown in the annual summary, issued by the Dominion Government, and for which Canada is at the present moment sending millions of dollars out of the country.

The total imports for the year ending December, 1915, amounted to $471,823,662, of which $450,547,774 represent merchandise, and $21,275,888 coin and bullion; total exports, including coin and bullion, $781,826,122.

Among the articles imported, in the composition of which the raw material lies right at our door, are the following:

Bread stuffs	$ 12,605,023
Brick, tiles, clay and manufactures of	1,538,455
Carriages, carts, wagons, etc.	8,993,204

Paper and manufactures of	4,523,067
Soap	1,124,308
Sugar, molasses, etc.....	21,970,418
Wood and manufactures of.....	8,273,456
Wool and manufactures of.....	25,742,541

The campaign which is now proceeding with a view to encourage a greater proportion of mixed farming farmers, will have a tendency to gradually increase the number of head of live stock. With a population of nearly 2,000,000, Western Canada is at the present time (notwithstanding the marvellous productiveness of its land) importing a large proportion of its necessary food products.

Government statistics and other estimates give some idea of the wealth-producing power of Western Canada, and the figures for certain articles produced during the year 1915 (so estimated) are as follows:

Grains, Hay, Roots, Etc.—

Manitoba.....	$119,462,000
Saskatchewan	224,875,300

The Dominion Census of 1911 showed the value of manufactured products in the four Western Provinces to be$143,998,802

Since that date there has necessarily been a large increase in the value of manufactured products, by reason of the continuous development of industrial propositions throughout the West.

The Dominion Government has for the last few years and still is engaged on a survey of the clay and shale deposits in the West, and from a summary report already issued it would appear evident that every kind of clay product can be manufactured. There will be a great and growing field open for the manufacture of all clay products, and cement and its products, the huge deposits of lime rock in Alberta and British Columbia being eminently suitable to this industry.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has now completed the construction of the Kootenay Central Line up the Columbia Valley through to the Crow's Nest Branch at Colvalli. This line is opening up a magnificent territory for Fruit, Stock, Poultry, Vegetables, Lumbering, Mining, etc.

The Kettle Valley Lines, running from Midway, B. C., to Merritt, B. C., are in operation, and the line to Hope, B. C., is expected to be finished during the year 1916. These lines of railway have opened up an interesting and productive territory in agricultural products, lumber, minerals, etc.

Following is a short synopsis of the provinces, together with a statement of their natural products:

WESTERN ONTARIO

From the Western shores of Lake Superior to the Eastern boundary of Manitoba is a great stretch of timbered lands, underlying which are deposits of iron, gold, clay, gravel and sand. The products of the iron ranges, which are tributary to the lake ports, are being developed, and the iron ore used at the blast furnaces at Port Arthur. The gold mining claims south of Dryden and at Kenora are being exploited. The water powers of this part of the province are estimated to produce 237,347 h.-p., but so far have only been developed at Current River, Kakabeka Falls and Kenora. The cities of Port Arthur and Fort William during the season of navigation, handle the huge grain crop of the West, which is shipped out over the lakes, and the freighters bring back a large tonnage of coal and merchandise. The paper pulp industry is being developed at Dryden, and Keewatin and Kenora are large flour milling centres.

Surrounding the Twin Cities of Port Arthur and Fort William there is estimated to be 100,000 acres of rich agricultural land suitable for grain growing, dairy farming, and all vegetables. The industrial development of these cities creates a large market for all agricultural produce grown locally.

MANITOBA

This province extends from the International Boundary to the shores of the Hudson Bay, and covers a territory rich in agricultural products. It has an area of 251,832 square miles, and is traversed by the Red, Winnipeg, Assiniboine, Nelson and Churchill Rivers. The newly added territory to the north has not yet been sufficiently explored to state with any certainty its wealth, but there are large stretches of timber, big clay deposits as well as minerals. The water powers are estimated to produce 6,916,000 h.-p., of which 78,000 has already been developed, principally for the City of Winnipeg. The lakes of Manitoba, which are so famous for their white fish, are Winnipeg, Winnipegosis and Manitoba.

The present principal products of the province are wheat, oats, barley, flax, roots, vegetables, live stock, poultry, dairying, cultured and domestic grasses, gypsum, clay, shale, limestone, gravel, sand, white fish, timber, etc. The construction of locks on the Red River, near Winnipeg, has opened up navigation through to Lake Winnipeg, and a large traffic is being developed. The estimated population of the province at the end of 1915 was 570,775.

SASKATCHEWAN

Has an area of 250,660 square miles, and is traversed by the North and South Saskatchewan Rivers, with the Churchill River in the north, and the Qu'Appelle and Souris Rivers in the centre and south. The larger lakes are the Athabasca, Reindeer, Wollaston, Quill and Last Mountain.

The water powers are estimated to produce 470,200 h.-p., but at the present time are practically undeveloped.

The estimated population of the province at the end of 1915 was 750,000.

The province has established a record for wheat growing, and amongst its present products are wheat, oats, barley, flax, cultivated and domestic grasses, roots, vegetables, live stock, poultry, dairying, lignite coal, timber, clay, shale, gravel, sand, etc.

ALBERTA

In area 253,570 square miles. Is the home of the Natural Gas field, and has coal beds underlying the larger part of the province. The Canadian Pacific Railway is bringing under irrigation a large tract of 3,000,000 acres, at a cost of some $11,500,000. The lands so irrigated have proved successful in producing every kind of grain, alfalfa and other fodders, sugar beets, vegetables, etc.

The principal rivers are the Peace, Athabasca, Bow and Red Deer. The lakes, Athabasca, Lesser Slave, Lac La Biche and numerous smaller ones.

Water powers are estimated to produce 1,137,060 h.-p., of which only about 7,300 h.-p. has been developed. The present products of the province are wheat, oats, barley, flax, alfalfa, roots, vegetables, live stock, poultry, dairying, sugar, coal, natural gas, cement, clay, gravel, sand, limestone, timber, etc.

The estimated population of the province at the end of 1915 was 550,000.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

Contains about 395,610 square miles. It is traversed from north to south by four principal mountain ranges—the Rocky and Selkirk ranges in the east, and the Coast and Vancouver ranges in the west.

There is a coast line of some 1,000 miles, with many fine harbors, in and out of which ocean liners carry merchandise and passengers to all parts of the world.

The principal rivers are the Columbia, Fraser, North and South Thompson, Skeena, Kootenay, Stikine, and the Peace.

The lakes are Atlin, Kootenay, Okanagan, Upper and Lower Arrow, Quesnel, Shuswap, Adams and many others.

The water powers are estimated to produce 2,045,945 h.-p., of which some 137,000 h.-p. has been developed.

The estimated population of the province at the end of 1915 was 450,000.

The principal products are coal, gold, silver, copper, lead, zinc, timber, furs, fish, oil, hops, fruit, vegetables, wheat, oats, barley, hay and cultivated grasses, marble, granite, limestone, gypsum, clay, shale, gravel, sand, etc.

Vancouver Island, with its ports of Victoria, Nanaimo and Alberni, is building up an immense shipping trade to all parts of the world. The island is tremendously rich in timber and minerals. Vancouver Island coal is the highest grade of coal available on the Pacific Coast, and is used largely as a fuel for steamers engaged in the Coast and Oriental trades. Every kind of agricultural pursuit is carried on and the nearby seas are developing large fisheries.
